TALKATIVE CHAP TO BE INTERNED IN GERMAN CAMP

Man Monessen Priest Arrested in Monongahela Assured of His Fate

INVESTIGATIONS COMPLETED

Department of Justice Operative Instructs That he be Held at Monongahela Temporarily—No Further Hearing To be Given

Prompt disposition will be made of the case of Antonio Naonowich, a German sympathizer who was arrested June 4 in Monongahela by Rev. Vladimir Levkanich, a Monessen priest. Operative Skelly of the Department of Justice in Pittsburgh visited Monongahela Tuesday night, where the man has been held since his arrest. Following investigation he instructed that Naonowich be held until tomorrow when he will be removed to a German internment camp "somewhere in the United States."

There will be no further trial in Naonowich's case, his preliminary hearing in Monongahela being regarded as sufficient by the Department of Justice operatives. He simply will be sent to a certain internment camp for Germans, of which a number are being established in various localities and kept there while hostilities with Germany last.

Rev. Levkanich and a friend overheard derogatory remarks to the American flag and nation made by Naonowich as they were coming out from Pittsburgh on a Charleroi car June 4. At Monongahela, holding with rage, the valiant priest and his companion pounced upon Naonowich and dragged him from the car, placing him in the keeping of a policeman of Monongahela. Rev. Levkanich is a priest of a large congregation at Monessen and has offered to head a delegation of 800 fighting men of his own race to France whenever the call comes.

STEEPLE JACK IN WRONG ELSEWHERE

Man Accused of Local Burglaries Charged With Canonsburg Robberies

GOODS FOUND IN HIS ROOMS

That "Steeple Jack" McDonald, who is charged with committing two burglaries in February in Charleroi, seems to be in wrong all around and facing stiff sentences in Washington county if all that is said is true about him. Following is a story from the Canonsburg Notes telling of robberies there of which he is accused:

"Jack" McDonald, otherwise known as "Steeple Jack," whose residence is Washington, but whose occupation carried him to Canonsburg, Charleroi and other towns, has lost his job. His job, according to his own admission, was that of burglar, and in carrying it on he paid several visits to Canonsburg. He is now living at the expense of the county.

McDonald confessed to Chief of Police John Lauderbaugh of Canonsburg and Chief Luellen of Washington that he entered the McCorkle, Moss and Hopper residences and carried away jewelry valued at several hundred dollars. The police have nothing however to connect McDonald with the robbery of the Dinds residence in Belmont avenue January 2 last, when nearly $500 worth of jewelry was taken.

McDonald was arrested at his home in Washington on suspicion of having robbed several houses. Jewelry was found in his possession, as well as at pawn brokers' places of business in Pittsburgh, where the accused man was taken by Chiefs Lauderbaugh and Luellen. Chief Lauderbaugh obtained possession of the "jimmy" used by McDonald and found that it fitted identically into the marks made in windows at the Moss, Hopper and McCorkle homes. At first McDonald denied having anything to do with the robbery of the McCorkle home, but goods found in his possession identified him with that robbery beyond a doubt.

LARGE SUM SUBSCRIBED TO LIBERTY LOAN

County Amount Surpasses By Far Apportionment to County District

MARK $10,000,000 HIGHER

Pittsburg District of Which This is Part Sets About Raising Higher Sum Than Was at First Contemplated—Friday Last Day

According to its proportionate share Washington county has over-subscribed for the Liberty Loan, helping to bring the total of over-subscription up to nearly $4,000,000 for the banking district of the city of Pittsburgh. Washington county's apportionment was $1,507,200 and the estimated subscriptions run to $2,478,000. Adding to the fact that a Charleroi man, Kerfoot W. Daly, is chairman of the county banking committee of the Public Safety committee and that through his efforts in the beginning plans were adopted and carried through to raise the loan subscriptions.

The amount apportioned to the Pittsburgh district by the treasury department was $39,300,000. The Liberty Loan committee in a report that it completed yesterday stated that the amount subscribed has reached the grand total of $62,886,804.

The Liberty Loan committee has set the mark $10,000,000 higher and it is expected that by noon next Friday when the subscriptions for the loans close, the committee will be in position to announce that the loan has been over-subscribed hat much.

REAL PATRIOTISM

With apatritism the depth of which they themselves probably do not realize, a certain element of Charle-roi juveniles have probably been away from the four pin precedent of play and have undertaken a movement to help humanity and their Uncle Sam, for which they deserve the greatest credit. These youngsters told of in anewstory, their ages ranging from 8 to 12 years, have carried out plans of their own arrangement to raise funds for the American Red Cross. That they have succeeded wonderfully well in their first endeavors attests to remarkable enthusiasm and persistency of purpose.

Possibly a dozen youngsters compose the "Auxiliary", terming themselves the Junior Red Cross. Their first effort was a show, planned with customary juvenile ardor, and given with a little better than ordinary juvenile talent. They charged from two to four cents admission to their shows. Instead of four pins and cleared in two productions $3.61. Imagine the pride when they were able to turn this amazing sum over to their treasurer, a business man who took an interest in affairs. The money was for the Red Cross. Now the Junior Red Cross proposes to conduct a bazaar to raise enough money to purchase a membership in the Charle-roi Red Cross chapter for each of the Junior society. Will they succeed? Indeed they will.

What a splendid example these youngsters set for the rest of us. They mean business. They cannot buy a Liberty Bond and they can only help in producing green stuffs. But they can raise money for the Red Cross, which is the next best thing, and they have done it. When we can do that much, what could not we who are so much older and experienced do.

SHOULD BE INFORMED.

The people of America are to be informed on every important movement made in the war with Germany if the Republican members of the U S senate have their way.

There is to be no undue concealment of the facts. Apologists for the administration are not to be allowed to play politics with the war without the people knowing their purpose.

Senators of Pennsylvania and other states believe the actual conditions should be revealed and they have joined issue with the Democratic leaders to force a showdown in all matters relating to the conflict abroad.

A "hidden hand" would seem to be working many of the war moves at present. That it is charged by the Republican senators, has created and is promoting distrust and destroying confidence and the contention is made that American soldiers are about to be sent abroad without necessary preparation.

The Republican senators are right in their demand for information. Our soldiers are going to war and they ought to know the conditions under which they must fight. And there is little or no excuse for concealment in a matter of such great importance to all the people.

U. S. S. Recruit, First "Land Battleship" Launched Amid New York Skyscrapers

The launching of a "land" battleship in the midst of towering buildings surrounding a public park, is an event unique to New York. The U. S. S. Recruit, shown in the accompanying picture, is the first "ship" of its kind probably in the world. She was launched in Union Square with all the ceremony attending the christening of a great sea fighter, the wife of the Mayor breaking a bottle of champagne over her bows before a brilliant assemblage and a vast throng of onlookers. In the name of the City of New York the Mayor presented the vessel to Admiral Usher of the U. S. Navy, and the navy colors have since floated from her mainmast. The Recruit will not belie her name, for she will be used for recruiting purposes exclusively. The headquarters of a naval station and office are a part of her complete equipment.

"Vet, vet, vet." * * * Suddenly he stopped. "Mein Gott!" he cried "Dry!"

Then he went on: "Vet, vet, vet, vet."

Presently he stopped again and wiped his brow. "Himmel!" he said: "Der son of a gun repeated."

A man who had purchased some currant buns at a bakery was distressed, on starting to eat one, to find that it contained a fly. Returning to the bakery, he made an indignant complaint demanding another bun in place of the inhabited one. "I'm sorry, sir," said the salesman.

"I can't give you another bun, but if you will bring back the fly I will exchange it for a current."

Perhaps the briefest funeral oration ever delivered was that of an old negro of Mississippi over the body of another of his race, who had borne a very bad reputation. Lifting his hat and looking down upon the coffin, the old fellow said in solemn funeral tones: "Sam Viser ro' is gon. We hope yo' is gone whar we 'spects you hain't."

GARDEN COLUMN

Corn Parasites.

Don't let the cutworms eat up your young corn shoots, advises today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, of Washington but exterminate them before they can do damage.

The cut worm chews off the plant at the root, and after it cuts down a stalk it can usually be found imbedded in the ground near-by. It should be dug up and killed to prevent attack on other stalks. Poisoned bran bait applied about the roots of the corn stalks will kill these worms.

No satisfactory remedy has been found for the corn ear worms. These bore through the husk and feed on the kernels and should be killed when the corn is husked.

Bud or boll worms, seldom trouble corn outside of the cotton states. The only remedy for it is hand picking. Corn grown on low ground is sometimes attacked by the curly or smut beetle, a grayish long-smouted bug with hard wings. A spray of carbolyzed lime—or slacked lime 30 pounds, to a quart of carbolic acid, mixed well—should be applied in powdered form. Hand pick the bug and remove the corn stalks when the crop is mature. Do not allow trash to remain on the ground as smut beetle breeds and passes the winter in it.

When smut appears on the corn causing large, irregular swellings on the ears or teps, the infected parts should be cut off and burned. There is no effective remedy for check for this disease. Rust, another common disease, showing spotted powdery masses of brownish spores, is not dangerous to the corn growth.

If you planted seeds failed to develop this season and you look for the cause, small white maggots may be discovered imbedded in the kernels. This maggot is deprived by the bean fly, an insect greatly resembling the house fly. Sand soaked in kerosene or a cupful to a bucket of dry sand—placed about the roots of plants along the rows will deter the flies from depositing eggs.

Direct Inheritance Tax Bill in Governor's Hands.

HOW LAW IS TO OPERATE

Collections Are to be Made by Register of Wills in Various Counties and Prompt Payment Entitles a Substantial Discount.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 12.—In passing finally and sending to the governor the Woodward bill providing a direct inheritance tax of $2 on every $100 worth of the clear value of an estate, the legislature took a decisive step towards the raising of new revenues. It is one of the biggest revenue-raising put through in a score of years.

Reports as to what will reach the commonwealth's coffers through this Woodward bill do not agree. On the contrary, they are as far apart almost as the poles. Legislators in urging favorable action on the measure said that as much as $5,000,000 a year will be realized. Certain state officers claim that the act would mean $10,000,000 additional revenue, while there are a few who say that almost immediately $15,000,000 a year will be created and that when the act begins to operate smoothly over $20,000,000 brand new revenue will begin to make its way in the direction of the state treasury.

The bill was amended in the senate to allow the auditor general to employ a resident attorney in counties having a population of 100,000 and less than 500,000 to sue for the recovery of the tax. In counties having a population of 500,000 or more additional resident lawyers can be named to protect the interest of the commonwealth in all matters relating to the enforcement of the law. The compensation would be fixed by the auditor general.

Every Estate Affected.

The tax of $2 on every $100 of clear value of an estate directly devised will be collected as the following provisions of the bill provide:

"That all estates, real, personal and mixed of every kind whatsoever, situated within this commonwealth, whether the person dying testate or intestate, domiciled within or without the commonwealth, and all such estates situated in any other state, territory or country, when the person dying seized thereof shall have his domicile with in this commonwealth at the time of his death, shall be subject to a tax of $2 on every $100 of the clear value of such estates, and at the same rate for a less amount to be paid for the use of the commonwealth.

"The tax hereinbefore provided is also imposed on any estate passing from the mother of an illegitimate child, or from any person of whom the mother is a lineal descendant, to such illegitimate child, his wife or widow. Such tax also applies to any estate passing from an illegitimate child to his mother."

System of Collection.

The registers of wills of the various counties would be the agents of the commonwealth for the collection of the tax and would work under the direction of the auditor general. The register of wills of the county in which the testator resided or of administration are granted would, when the occasion requires, appoint appraisers to fix the value of estates. A person dissatisfied with an appraisal could appeal to the orphan's court.

If the tax is paid within three months after the death of the decedent, a discount of 5 per cent would be allowed. If the tax is not paid within a year after death a penalty of 12 per cent a year would be added. The executor, administrator or trustee paying any legacy or share in the distribution of any estate would deduct the tax on the sum paid. If the legacy delivered is note money, the officer in charge of the estate would demand payment of the tax from the person receiving the bequest. Where the legatee refused to pay the tax, the article would be sold at public sale.

When a bequest would take effect after the expiration of one or more life estates or a period of years, the tax would not be payable or interest begin until the person liable for the tax would come into actual possession of the property. The tax would be assessed on the value of the estate at the time possession would accrue to the owner, but he could, if he desired, pay prior to getting possession. The tax on real estate would remain a lien on the property until paid.

When a legacy would be given to a person for life or a limited period, the tax on the whole amount would be retained if the bequest was money, but if not money, application would have to be made to the orphan's court to make an apportionment.

OPPOSITION TO NEW AUTO CODE

Proposed Increase in License
Fee is Unpopular.

BARELY PASSES SENATE BODY

Advocates of Measure Claim Protest
Not Well Taken Because Additional Fee Would Mean More Money for Good Roads in State.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 12.—By a vote of twenty-six to ten, the Buckman automobile bill went through the senate last week and is now before the house for concurrence. Its success in the lower branch is hardly possible unless the amendments inserted by the senate are dropped. These amendments to which automobile associations all over the state have fled protests deal with the cost of licenses. The fee on all high-priced cars has been increased over 50 per cent.

Those urging the amendments claim that the men protesting are pursuing a short-sighted policy. It is their contention that inasmuch as the money collected on auto licenses is to be used for the repair and construction of roads, owners of machines will be more than reimbursed for the increased fee by a saving in tires.

Senator Buckman had the bill hurried through the senate in order that no time should be lost in the fight to eliminate the changes made. The motor organizations of the state went every amendment to the bill stricken out, so that it will be in the shape agreed upon between legislative leaders, motorists and the state highway department. Senator Buckman is none too sanguine about the passage of the measure, however.

The bill abolishes all existing auto laws and if it does not pass, conditions will remain exactly as they are under the present act. With this idea in mind Senator Buckman introduced a bit of emergency legislation in the shape of an amendment to the section of the present act relating to front lights on autos. He would amend this so that no lights would throw a ray higher than forty-two inches from the ground at a distance of 70 feet from the auto.

A new bill affecting the auto business has been introduced by Senator Edward W. Patton, of Philadelphia. This measure provides that after January 1 next no person could operate a public garage or auto repair shop without obtaining first an annual license from the state highway commissioner at a cost of $2. The revenue would be used for highway improvement. Annual reports would have to be made to the commissioner showing the number of autos handled for storage, repair and alteration and provision also is made for the public sale of vehicles where the owner has failed to pay for storage or repairs six months after the amount was due.

A resolution calling on the state highway department to "stop construction of joy-riding boulevards" and instead to build roads to facilitate movement of agricultural products to towns was presented by Mr. Milleron, Armstrong, in the house. Mr. Walter Franklin, objected to its consideration and it went over.

Want New Highways.

When a batch of bills creating new state highways came up one day last week an attempt was made to have them sent back to committees, probably never to see the light of day again. Country members made vigorous objection to this and succeeded in passing the bills on second reading. It is doubtful if any of these bills will ever reach the governor. Both the senate and house highway committees have an understanding to create no new state highways unless the prospects for more revenues become more favorable. In this connection the chairman of these committees point out that of the 10,000 miles of state highway created by the Sproul act, less than 2500 miles of that roadway have been permanently improved.

The only reason the bills ever got out of committee was due to the absence of Representative Spangler, of York, chairman of the house committee on public roads and highways. Mr. Spangler was away at Fort Niagara training for duty and the acting chairman permitted all bills to come out. Spangler returned to Harrisburg and endeavored to send them back, but failed in this attempt by a narrow margin. The vote plainly indicated, however, that the opposition is sufficiently strong to block the measures from reaching the governor.

A resolution proposing that the members of the legislature be paid the final $100 of salary due them in liberty bonds instead of cash stirred up more trouble in the house of representatives one morning last week than it has seen in many days. A disgruntled Representative Minter, of Reading Socialist, to his feet to file a protest and declare that if he wanted to buy a bond he'd buy it, but he wouldn't buy it on the conscription system.

Many members more or less disgruntled opposition to the proposition that their final payment from the state would be made in government bonds, but realizing that the situation was loaded with dynamite as far as political records were concerned few dared the hardihood to speak on the floor.

Camel CIGARETTES

You compare Camels with any cigarette for purity, wholesomeness, quality, flavor, aroma; for satisfying "body"—for anything any cigarette ever did offer you! You'll prefer Camels to straight Turkish or straight Domestic, or any cigarette you ever smoked! And Camels will not tire your taste! Camels will delight your fancy in many ways. The blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos does away with any unpleasant cigaretty after-taste or after-effect. Smokers quickly realize that the absence of coupons or premiums is due to the cost of the tobaccos.

KEEP THE TOWN CLEAN.

Make it a Campaign to Last as Long as There's Work to Do.

Don't call it a "cleanup" day or a "cleanup" week when you start out to really do something to make your town or community a cleaner, safer, healthier place in which to live, suggests a state board of health bulletin. Or rather, don't let it be the prevailing idea that one day or one week is sufficient in which to clean up and get rid of all nuisances and health dangers. And what is still more important, don't think that when you have cleaned off a few vacant lots and alleys, set out a few trees and carted off the trash and papers from a few back yards that you have had a successful cleanup campaign. As a matter of fact, you haven't touched the dirty dirt or removed any of the real dangers to health and safety.

It is true that trash and rubbish are unsightly and should be removed, but in comparison to flies and the feeding and breeding places of flies rubbish is not the filthiest filth that we think it is. To some people flies may not look as bad as trash, but it is only to those who don't know where they breed, what they eat and the number and kind of disease germs they carry on their feet. It is this kind of filth that a cleanup campaign should go after and clean up.

A cleanup campaign should not stop at a week, at a month or a season unless the town or community has in reality reached the point where it can clean up and keep clean. No spasmodic effort at cleanliness gets results. It does not only fail to get a clean and attractive town, but it is worse than nothing as a means of safeguarding health. The cleanup campaign that is worth while is that which induces the people to clean up and keep clean all the year round and which goes after the dangerous filth—flies, surface closets that admit flies and breeding places for flies. Breeding places for mosquitoes might well be added to the list.

GET BACK TO NATURE.

Live the Simple Life and Win Health and Happiness.

The movement to return to nature and simple life is the solution offered to the high cost of living problem, but health experts and enthusiasts have found it to be the only way of right living or healthful living known today. They have adopted it as a safe road to health. They say that a return to nature means good digestion, sound sleep, a clear head, a placid mind, contentment and joy to be alive.

But first, they say, it means getting close to nature—living out of doors as much as possible by working, playing and resting in the open air and, above all, by sleeping in the open air. "Outdoor sleeping is the best life preserver known." It means also going to the garden and orchard for your bit of fare—tomatoes, lettuce, celery, spinach, turnips, beans, corn, peas, melons, berries, apples, peaches, plums and all other fruits and green stuffs untouched by fire.

The real value of adopting the simple life, according to the health experts, lies in the pleasure we find in living it. To do it grudgingly or without knowing and appreciating its benefits we loath it and fail, but to love health more than appetite and seek it to have health, comfort, efficiency and a long life. "Start the simple life—begin it today," is the motto of this health movement.—North Carolina State Board of Health Bulletin.
